Jewell J. Honeycutt, 70 years old today, will retire from Hope Post Office November 29 after 35 years' service as a postman. In his time he has walked every postal route in town.

Mr. Honeycutt served with the 32nd Infantry Regiment in World War I, from September 4, 1917, to June 25, 1919.

He entered the local postal service as a substitute city carrier, December 3, 1923, later being promoted to regular city carrier. The photograph made by the editor Thursday afternoon shows Mr. Honeycutt starting off from the loading dock at the rear of Hope Post Office on the familiar daily round of Hope households which will come to an end this month.

Mr. Honeycutt looks back at a family now grown and scattered. The Honeycutts have two sons and a stepdaughter, and six grandchildren. The sons are Jack, of Galesburg, Ill., and Don, of Thomas, Mo. The stepdaughter is Mrs. W. H. Plino of Marlin, Texas.

Inevitably, the editor asked Mr. Honeycutt how he had gotten along with the city dogs during his 35 years as a postman. "I," replied Mr. Honeycutt, "have a knack with dogs. Of course some dogs don't want to be friendly, and they're the kind that'll bite you. I've run into some of them."

"But taking dogs as a class, I'd have good luck. There was Jewell Perkins' bulldog named 'Chief.' He followed me for seven years as I walked my postman's route—until old 'Chief' died."

"The dog walking the route with me now is 'Rat,' owned by Roy Bullard of Mockingbird Lane."

But Mr. Honeycutt will still be remembering all of you.

U. S. Economic Recovery Has Fallen Short

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government economists report that the rate of the nation's economic recovery fell short of expectations during the July-September quarter.

However, they predict the economy will soar to a new high next year.

The Commerce Department said Thursday the gross national product increased 1.2 percent in the third quarter, a billion dollars less than the government estimated a month ago.

However, the GNP scored a 10-billion-dollar increase over the second quarter rate, and moved from 1.8 billion above the recession low rate of $125,800,000,000 during 1958's first quarter. It is some 12 billion shy of the record high rate of $445,000,000,000 during last year's third quarter.

The gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—is considered a key economic indicator.

Hempstead Sheriff Jimmy Cook has issued a report for the past year, ending Nov. 1, 1958, on some 670 cases disposed of in local courts.

The Sheriff's Department filed a total of 679 cases; 38 were dismissed; 64 paid fines in jail; 13 bound over to the grand jury; three were appealed and only nine outstanding.

Amount of fines and costs totaled $40,277.40 of which $30,704.95 was paid to the Municipal Court Clerk.

Of this sum the deputy prosecuting attorney was paid $8,070; State Game and Fish Commission $128.25; Co. Treas. The amount of fines assessed and served in jail cases bound over to grand jury, cases dismissed, cases suspended, not guilty cases, etc., totaled $6,263.05. The difference between the fines and cost assessed and money paid in represents sheriff's fees which are not paid to the municipal clerk.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Trooper Fount Allen of Yellville was ordered yesterday to pay $9,550 in a suit brought in connection with an accident between his patrol car and a school bus.

A Pulaski Circuit Court jury set the amount. The plaintiffs, five children and their parents, sought $50,000.

The suit charged the children suffered serious injuries in a collision Jan. 8 between the car and bus on U. S. Highway 62 near Pyatt in Marion County.

Allen said he was pursuing a suspect when the crash occurred. The judgment was in favor of the children and their parents.

Fugate Girl Is Found Guilty, Given Life

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—A jury today found Carl Ann Fugate guilty of first degree murder in helping Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage.

Life imprisonment was prescribed.

Starkweather, 19, was convicted on identical charges last May and drew a death sentence, still to be executed.

The jury verdict against Starkweather's 16-year-old ex-sweetheart was delivered at 11:10 a. m. to climax the trial that began nearly four weeks ago.

A trim and pretty brunette, Carl was charged with aiding and abetting Starkweather in one of 11 killings.

By its verdict, the jury of seven men and five women labored Carl a helpful companion to Starkweather on a killing spree that shocked the nation.

Rejected Carl's plea that she was forced into her role by fears for her own life and threats of harm to her family.

She was convicted of first degree, on the second count, which is murder in the perpetration of a robbery.

It was Starkweather himself who pointed the most accusing finger at the girl.

Inflated into court from his death cell at the Nebraska Penitentiary, the bony-legged redhead described Carl as his willing and aggressive helpmate in the slayings.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The fate of Carl Ann Fugate, 15, remained today in the hands of a jury still undecided after weighing for eight hours and 25 minutes the murder case against her.

The jury began considering evidence Thursday morning that the trim little brunette aided and abetted condemned killer Charles Starkweather in one of 11 slayings he has admitted.

Nearly 12 hours later the seven men and five women quit for the night.

Carl and her attorneys have contended she was Starkweather's hostage, a fear-stricken girl without opportunity to escape a mad-dog killer.

Carl is accused of first degree murder and first degree robbery in the commission of a robbery in the shooting of Robert W. Jensen, 17, Benoit, Neb., schoolboy.

Starkweather, 19, her ex-sweetheart, was condemned to die on the same charge.

Casey Jones' Widow Dies at Age of 92

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Casey Jones, widow of the legendary locomotive engineer immortalized in the folk ballad bearing his name, died in a nursing home today at the age of 92.

It was on April 30, 1900, that Casey was piloting locomotive No. 382 when he rounded a curve, and saw another train dead ahead. He commanded his fireman to jump to safety while he rode into the crash, and American folklore.

Mrs. Jones suffered a stroke several weeks ago.

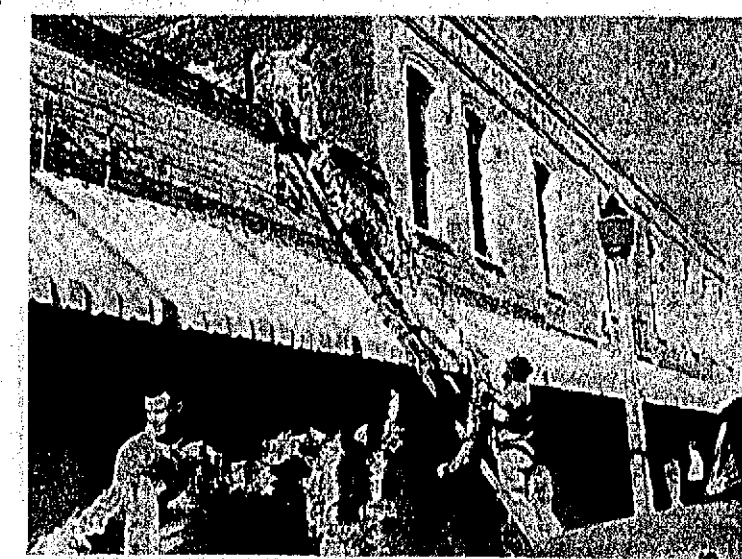

High graduate, she is an East Texas State College English major before coming to ETSC, she attended Texarkana Junior College.

Notice where many high school teams will close their season on Turkey Day with games at 10 a. m. This lets the fans return home in plenty of time for Thanksgiving dinner and they will be able to see the Texarkana Texas A&M game on television in the afternoon. Personally, we think it's a good idea.

Some home-made ceramics will be sold starting Nov. 28 in the old Stewart's Jewelry Store home in First National Bank Building. Proceeds will go to the Altar Society.

Compromise Is Likely, Says Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), just returned from a trip around the world, said yesterday the South might have to accept a compromise on a move to make it easier to halt Senate filibusters.

Fulbright reiterated his opposition to such a move as a matter of principle.

The Arkansas senator said, however, there is strong support for the proposal, backed by Northern liberals. He said a possible compromise might be a rule permitting a two-third majority of senators present and voting to wind up debate.

A debate or filibuster now can be stopped only by a vote of two-thirds of all 96 senators. Northern liberals want to make it possible for a majority of senators present and voting to end debate on an issue after 15 days.

Fulbright said he believes that in a country as big and complex as the United States it is not feasible to permit a simple majority to halt debate.

"There has to be some protection for the minority," he said. "Otherwise the majority could change the rules any day for any purpose."

On his round-the-world trip, Fulbright was an official representative to meetings of the World Bank and International Fund in New Delhi. On his return he visited countries.

He said that after he catches up some work here he will return to Arkansas.

Trans World Airlines Is Struck Today

ARKANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Trans World Airlines operations were halted today by a strike of machinists, but there were indications it might be of short duration.

Just three minutes before the strike deadline at 10 a. m. Cliff Miller, district chairman of the International Assn. of Machinists, left a negotiating session with company representatives.

He announced a new proposal had been made and the union had taken it under advisement.

Promptly at deadline time the machinists walked off their jobs at TWA installations and posted pickets.

TWA, one of the world's largest airlines, has about 7,000 machinists, 2,700 of them based in Kansas City, the overhaul headquarters.

The strike, it continued, would affect about 10,000 employees of the airline in all parts of the world.

About 0.45 a. m. Miller left the negotiating session. John P. Mead, director of personnel and industrial relations for the airline, followed him out and spoke to him. They both returned to the meeting where four other company officials still were sitting.

It was about 10 minutes later that Miller stepped from the room with the announcement the company had submitted a new proposal.

He said the union had taken it under advisement.

Missile Goes Out After a Jet Target

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Bomarc intercepter missile rumbled over the Atlantic today in search of a jet drone more than 250 miles away.

The Bomarc, which the Air Force claims is the most potent air defense weapon yet developed, roared off the Cape launching pad at 10:40 a. m.

The Air Force rarely announces the results of these tests but it was expected the 47-foot Bomarc would score a near miss on the jet to save it for future tests.

The Bomarc, which has been fired more than 45 times from the Cape, blasted straight up to an altitude of about 60,000 feet before it eased over and streaked away.

Once again the Bomarc was fired by remote control from an air defense center in Kingston, N.Y., 1,500 miles to the north.

Once a button is pressed in Kingston, the Bomarc roars away at close to three times the speed of sound.

Once it dives on target, ground control is finished and the missile uses a radar homing device to score the "hit."

Says Radar to Replace GOC Watcher

WASHINGTON (AP)—Radar soon will replace the 280,000 civilian volunteers who spent many hours in the past nine years watching for enemy planes in American skies.

The Air Force announced Thursday the Ground Observer Corps will disband Jan. 31. The reason: The human eye cannot keep up with requirements of the jet and missile age.

Several radar networks across the Arctic, Canada and the U.S. northern border, and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts—now protect the United States. The Air Force believes these networks would spot jets and missiles along before they flew over the GOC's 16,000 observation posts.

In addition, the Air Force said new automatic equipment can collect and interpret observation data faster than the GOC's 50 filter centers.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, has invited members of the GOC to take part in civil defense work after the corps is disbanded.

Situation Is Explosive Over a Supply Line

BONN, Germany (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko said tonight the Russians are going "to give Berlin back to the Germans" by Christmas.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
BERLIN (AP)—East Germany signed an agreement today assuring West German civilian traffic freedom of movement in and out of West Berlin, authoritative sources said.

The reported agreement, at the height of a new crisis over the isolated old German capital, has no effect, however, on the explosive question of control of Western Allies supply lines to the divided city.

Rather, it appeared to be an assurance to the 2,000,000 West Berliners that they will not be affected when and if the Soviet Union pulls out of the four-power control of Allied supply lines over to Communist East Germany.

In the 1948-49 blockade, the Soviet Union not only stopped military traffic but civilian, as well. This created the need for the airlift.

Under present circumstances, an airlift would be designed to support only the 10,000 Allied fighting men plus Western officials and their families.

A West Berlin official said the agreement "is a positive sign of relief of tension."

The bulk of West Berlin's supplies moves from West Germany over a 110-mile highway, rail link and a network of canals.

Western military traffic uses these same lifelines. However, it is checked through Soviet controls as agreed under postwar four-power agreements.

The United States, France and Britain do not recognize East Germany and refuse to have any dealings with its regime.

Sources said the East-West German agreement also provided for an exchange of West German steel for East German soft coal, mainly for the supply of Berlin.

The West Germans have always felt they held a trump card with the East Germans in the Berlin dispute because of the international trade issue. East Germany is anxious to continue international trade in order to help fulfill its ambitious economic plans.

Trade talks between East and West Germany were carried on a semi-official basis in Berlin. As before, they were regarded as being of a technical nature, which did not involve Bonn recognition of East Germany.

The agreement on access to Berlin would not interfere, however, with any Communist plan to close the border between East and West Berlin. West Berlin officials freely predicted this will be the next East German move.

By this action the East Germans could cut off free travel without passports between the two sectors of the city to close an escape hatch through which more than a million East Germans have fled to the West.

Stopping this refugee flow appears to be one of the major objectives of Nikita Khrushchev's efforts to drive the Western Allies from Berlin. The Soviet premier demanded Nov. 10 that the United States, Britain and France withdraw their occupation troops.

Andrei Smirnov, Soviet ambassador to West Germany, told Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn Thursday that Moscow had decided to pull out of the four-power occupation under which Berlin operates.

The Allies refuse to abandon West Berlin to the Communists surrounding it.

Calhoun Is Fighter of the Month

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One thing about Rory Calhoun, the muscular music lover. He always is eligible for the "Fighter of the Month."

Rory will be making his 10th appearance of the year tonight when he takes on old reliable Ralph "Tiger" Jones at Madison Square Garden.

Except for the fact that he has been making money, this has not been one of Calhoun's better years. He was stopped for the first time, Jan. 20 by Spider Webb in San Francisco. He also lost decisions to Joey Giardello and Gene (Ace) Armstrong. Now he is No. 10 middle in the Ring rankings and No. 6 by the National Boxing Assn. in the light heavy class.

The fellow in the other corner came with your TV set. This will be Jones' 34th television appearance. Only Jack Paar does better.

The old Tiger, 30, hasn't been too active this year. He broke even in two bouts with Kid Gavilan, another oldtimer, and lost to Jim Heggie. He bounced back by stopping highly regarded Mickey Crawford on a 10th round TKO Sept. 10 in Chicago.

Calhoun, 24, has a 37-55-1 record. He is a solid puncher, eager to swap but an easy target. Jones, with a record of 45-23-4, is a thick-necked body puncher who seldom puts up a bad fight. The Tiger claims both Yonkers and St. Albans, N.Y., as his home while Calhoun is booked out of White Plains, N.Y.

NBC radio and television will carry the 10 round match, starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Hogan, Snead Fight to Trip Match Leaders

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Americans Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, sought to overtake the Australian entry in the team race for the Canada Golf Cup today after a hectic first round that produced several surprises and an individual leader from Colombia.

The United States Team went into today's second round with a total of 142 tied with Ireland one stroke behind Australia.

Miguel Sala, a little known Colombian, playing in his first international match, turned in a three-under-par 69 to lead the world's greatest golfers in the individual competition. Only six other players among the 63 from 22 countries broke par.

Two iron shot artists from Australia, Frank Phillips and Ken Nagle, fired the best combined score, a two-under-par 142. Phillips was one of four players to shoot 70. His partner Nagle had a 72.

Hogan, the four-time United States champion, had to sink a six foot birdie putt on the final stroke to put the American team in a second place tie with Ireland.

Hogan finished with 72 while his partner Snead shot a 71.

At the top three teams came Australia and Great Britain tied at 144, Scotland 145, Brazil 146, Spain 148, the Philippines 149 and Colombia 149.

Others who broke par were Henry Broadshaw of Ireland, Flory van Donck of Belgium and Leopoldo Ruiz of Argentina with 69 and Bernard Hull of Great Britain with a 71.

Musial Admits He's Slowing Down a Bit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Musial, 38 today, concedes he is slowing down a bit but still thinks he can play a couple of more seasons. He has set his sights on another baseball milestone.

"I'd like to be first in hits in the National League," said the St. Louis Cardinal star. Musial has 3,116 for his 16-year career. Honus Wagner holds the league record with 3,480.

Last season Musial became the eighth major leaguer to reach the 3,000-hit mark and surpassed the recently injured Mel Ott's record for extra bases.

Musial, who also celebrates his 19th wedding anniversary today, expressed pleasure at Cardinal Manager Solly Hemus' plan to return him to the outfield.

"Left field is a breeze compared to first base," said Stan. "I'd like to be first base," said Stan. "It gives me a chance to concentrate more on my hitting."

Maintaining that two weeks is enough for him to reach top physical condition, Musial said he plans to ask permission to report two weeks late for spring training.

Musial conceded he won't be able to play steadily all next season. He tired badly late last season. "But if I take a couple of days off each week, I can play about 125 games," he said.

Received No Help of Any Kind

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Republican State Sen. William Bourdon listed expenses of $497 in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election. In a footnote to his financial statement, he said "I received no financial help from anyone and very little of any other kind."

CLARENDON, Ark. (AP) — The president of the Clarendon Industrial Development Corp. says donations by residents provided $56,000 to help finance buildings for the Stoddard Manufacturing Co. The official, Harry McCabe, said school children even gave their lunch money in the drive to get the plant, which will employ about 300 persons.

Another L. R. Board Hopeful Withdraws

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A second candidate for the Little Rock School Board withdrew from the race today. The action reduced to 13 the total number of candidates for the six board seats.

Vaughan Winston, a trucking company operator, said he had entered the race only because it had appeared until shortly before the filing deadline that all the positions would not be filled.

"Now since there have been good people who filed for all positions," he said, "... there is no need for me to continue in the race."

Five seats on the integration-troubled board presently are vacant because of a mass resignation of members. The sixth position is held by Dr. Dale Alford, whose term expires this year.

The posts will be filled at the regular Dec. 6 schools election.

In his withdrawal statement, Winston praised the old school board members for "outstanding courage and fine public service displayed by them under very trying conditions and in the face of very strong feelings displayed some."

The school board resignations were submitted in the face of a new federal court ruling directing that positive steps be taken here toward public school integration.

Winston had been in a three-way race for a two year term succeeding Wayne Upton, the resigned board president.

The others seeking Upton's seat are Russell H. Matson Jr., a contractor, and C. C. Bailey, an official of the Plumbers and Steamfitters union. Matson is a member of a five-candidate slate put forth by a group of downtown businessmen. Bailey has classified himself as an "independent."

Originally 15 candidates filed for school board positions. The first to withdraw was Mrs. Mildred Clayton, whose husband also filed and remains in the race. Mrs. Clayton gave no reason for her action.

James T. Karam, the first to announce intentions of becoming a candidate, abandoned his plans. Karam is a close personal friend of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who has closed Little Rock's public schools.

Every Family Comes to This Crisis — When Their Child Asks About Old Santa Claus

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — We have just survived one of those storms of doubt that shake family life in the roots.

It was a new crisis in an old belief—a crisis for which I was quite unprepared.

Without any warning my daughter, Tracy, who is nearly half-past five, looked up from the floor, and asked: "Daddy, do you think there's a Santa Claus?"

"Well, if there isn't," I replied absent-mindedly, "I don't know what the Democrats will do in 1960."

"Well, you know what I hear? I hear there ain't really any Santa Claus at all. It's just your father and mother all the time."

"Where did you hear that?" "Never mind," said Tracy, leering up craftily. "But the words going around. All the kids are talking about it."

"There was a lengthy silence as my mind churned fanatically. Long ago I had clipped out that fine old newspaper editorial, 'yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus,' foreseeing that some day it would come handy in just such an emergency. But I couldn't remember where I'd put it."

"Well, Daddy, what do you think about Santa Claus?" prodded Tracy. "Tell me truly."

"When I was a little boy we used to hang up our stockings every Christmas eve," I replied evasively. "And we always tried to get the biggest stocking we could find. We hoped Santa Claus would fill it up."

"The next morning, sure enough, and right at the bottom of the sock was a great big orange, the best gift of all. People didn't have an orange every day then. What do you think of that?"

"It sounds to me like Santa Claus was pretty hard up in those days," said Tracy in one of the classic understatements of the 20th century.

But she dropped the subject. The other night when I came home she climbed up next to me on the sofa. She held a pencil and paper.

"Daddy, there are an awful lot of liars in this neighborhood," she said, smoothing out her dress. "I mean about Santa Claus."

They been saying it's just your father and mother. But I went to the department store with Mommy this afternoon. And guess who I saw. "Santa Claus himself, he's even fatter this year. He's even fatter than"—words tumbled for a moment — "He's even fatter than you."

I mulled over this insult. Tracy handed me the paper and pencil. "I want you to help me write a letter to Santa Claus and tell him what I want him to bring me for Christmas."

"Why," I suggested, "don't you go back to the department store, climb up in old Santa's lap, give him a big kiss, and tell him yourself?"

"I'm scared to—after the things I've been saying about him the last two weeks," said Tracy. "I think we'd better deal with him by mail."

Gifts of beauty that any girl would like to find under her Christmas tree can vary so widely as to include eye make-up, cologne or a beautiful compact. To enhance her eyes, there's this automatic mascara stick (left) in its own little case with mask design. It rolls mascara onto the lashes without heating or smearing. Cologne in fresh flower scents (center) is bottled in apothecary jars for Christmas giving. Slim compact in brushed silver-and-gold metal (right) has bowknot design on top, contains powder. Some beauty gifts are ideal as stocking stuffers; others can go under the tree or, beautifully wrapped, decorate a mantelpiece. Wherever they are placed, they will make Christmas more festive.

New trends in window treatment tend to integrate, rather than dominate, room settings. Shown above, is a window wall sectioned off and hung with six narrow shades of textured tweed.

Chapter 29

When she opened the door, he flew out in a torrent of dancing and barking, sniffing and jumping. He bounded up at her, raced to the bed, raced back, and then to the window. She followed him over and pushed the button and he dashed out across the grass, pawing and throwing his head like a stallion. After 30 seconds the windows slid shut of their own accord.

Katherine thought: "Nobody's been in here this morning. I can tell. If they had, they would have let him out. He would have barked and scratched on the door, just the same as he did when I came in. It wouldn't be particularly because they liked him—or wanted to be kind—but it would be automatic. When dog scratches on a door, you always let him out."

She began rattling off her clothes, thinking: "I'll look better—and feel better, too—when I put on fresh clothes, and wash myself, and comb my hair. She went into the bathroom and turned on the cold water, and at that moment it occurred to her for the first time why the house was so empty. Paul and Aunt Millicent had gone to church, too. Aunt Millicent was very religious. She'd probably made Paul go with her.

She was plunging her face into the cold water, when she thought also: "There's another pair of glasses that belong to me. They are in Mother's bedside table. I saw them yesterday. I'll be able to see again."

And when she had gotten herself fully dressed again—clean, at least, if still disfigured—she went back out into the hall. Nothing had been touched. Her own glasses lay at the front of the drawer; she picked them up and put them on.

gaining way.
She kept repeating over and over in her head: "I'm safe for an hour. I'm safe for an hour," and after a moment the fright began to ebb away a little, and she thought with relief: Even if I'm not very brave, I can't go on being that frightened forever. It's got to go up and down. Or if it doesn't, I'll get accustomed to it after a while.

The hall was empty.
Now that she was out of Paul's room her confidence began to return a little.

She turned and went down the hall and across the living room toward the kitchen. She dreaded being scolded by Amy, or being babied. She could anticipate the questions she would be asked, and the fuss that would be made. Another time she might not have minded so much; but now she had no time for questions and fussings. The paper was the only important thing.

She opened the kitchen door and went inside, stealing herself as the radio voices swelled around her. Amy was pulling out the dough for biscuits. She looked around, smiled wanly, and said: "Well, love, did you have a good rest this morning?"

"Yes."
"I just thought you needed your sleep—you looked something terrible last night, poor little thing—so I didn't disturb you."

"Where are Paul and Aunt Millicent?"
"Oh, they've gone to church. They left a long time ago. They asked me at breakfast if I'd seen you, but I told them you was still asleep, which was what you needed more than anything else, heavy sleep. Are you hungry now, baby?"

"No."
"Well, we'll be having lunch before too long now. Let me see—I think I'll just run on down to your room and spread up the bed. Did you just now get up?"

Katherine said, "Yes," without thinking.
"Well, I'll bet you did have a good rest. Come here now and let me look at those bruises and things. I don't know how in the world you ever managed to do all that." Her affectionate fingers poked and prodded. "Well, I think you ought to get back in bed, myself. That's what I think. I don't want to get back in bed."

"But you look better than you did last night. And you got cleaned up for Sunday, too. You survived the sun-spit. But why did you put on that little thing?"

"It's comfortable," Katherine squirmed away from her, eager to start her search.

"Well, I don't know what Dr. Treslove'll say when he comes over to see you this afternoon. But I guess it's all right. We won't worry about that, will we? Well, I'll go to your room and then we'll have lunch as soon as they get back from church."

Still talking she went off to the other part of the house with her cleaning tools, leaving Katherine alone to think. They didn't tell

GOC Goes Out of Existence Jan. 31

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "The Ground Observer Corps, a nationwide group of 350,000 civilians organized by the Air Defense Command six years ago to watch the skies for signs of enemy planes, will go out of existence Jan. 31.

This was disclosed today on the basis of letters sent by ADC headquarters here to governors and GOC director.

It was reported the decision to inactivate the GOC was made because of completion of the ADC's warning network, which would intercept enemy aircraft before they could reach North American shores.

Included in the network are the Distinct Early Warning line radar stations along the Arctic Circle and across Canada, as well as air and sea warning stations on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

her I was gone, but they knew it. They'd been in my room last night and found out that I wasn't there. They tried to find out if she knew where I was, or if I'd told her anything. I'm glad I didn't tell her anything; she might have told them what I said. I'm still safe for a little while, but the first thing to do is find the paper.

West Agrees to Avoid Any Action Now

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Allies were reported today to avoid any action in the developing Berlin crisis which could be construed as recognition of Communist East Germany.

If the Reds force the issue and block Allied traffic to West Berlin, the Allies are understood to be ready to resort to an airlift.

The United States, Britain and France also were reported studying counter moves to improve their bargaining position with the Soviet Union.

Some authorities indicated these might involve a crackdown on trade between the West and East Germany.

State Department officials were studying, meanwhile, a report received late Thursday from Bonn on the meeting there between Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Smirnov was reported to have told Adenauer what steps Russia intends to take to end the four-power occupation and control of Berlin, which is 110 miles inside Communist territory.

Although diplomats were giving close attention to the Berlin controversy, there was no air of alarm. This was underscored by the absence from the city of both President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. Both are vacationing, Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., and Dulles at his Lake Ontario retreat.

Withdrawal of U.S., British and French forces from the Western sector of divided Berlin is a Russian objective, the move which began two weeks ago. An effort to force Western recognition of the Red regime in East Germany is regarded here as another objective. In the long run, this campaign may be aimed at the neutralization of all Germany.

The Big Ten winds up its season with fifth-ranked Wisconsin meeting Minnesota; Purdue (No. 8) playing Indiana for the Old Oaken Bucket; Ohio State (No. 11) entertaining Michigan, whose Benji Oosterbaan bids farewell; and 20th-ranked Northwestern plays Illinois.

Sister Ship to Stricken Freighter

THE FREIGHTER Bradley which sank in Lake Michigan earlier this week, taking 33 lives, was the sister ship of the William Clyde shown above lodged crossways in the Black River at Lorraine, Ohio in 1955. Seems both ships had their trouble. The William Clyde was in process of turning around in the river and became stuck. The above shot was made by a friend of Gene Allen, Star linotype operator, who was in Lorraine at the time of the incident.

ALASKA'S CONTRIBUTION—Australians gave us the omnipresent hoop and now the Alaskan Eskimos are getting into the act with a sort of bolas of the South American Gaucho. It can also be likened to a yo-yo. Sharon Orbeck of Fairbanks demonstrates the bolas (or yo-yo, or whatever) in Washington, D.C. As it is swung up and down, one ball goes one way and the other ball the other. So far, they're made only by the Eskimos.

DISENCHANTED—A workman goes about his job of helping to tear down the buildings of the 1958 World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium. Rapidly becoming a pile of war-reminiscent rubble is the "Merry Belgium" village, background, which attracted millions of visitors during the fair's six months.

SPRING CHICKEN—Summery fall weather in Florida has evidently put some spring into Edna Furlong, as she cuts capers at Cypress Gardens. Beneath a sheltering palm tree, she's 'limbering up' between water ski shows.

Hays Says He Will Not Run for Office

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) told the Arkansas State Baptist Convention today he probably would not run for public office again.

Hays, defeated for Democratic renomination by Dr. Dale Alford of Little Rock in the Nov. 4 election, said he wasn't closing the door on his public life but had no political plans at present.

He is president of the Southern Baptist Convention and after his election defeat said he would devote some time to church work early next year. His term as president expires in about six months.

The congressman told the convention the world is in need of Christian dedication.

"There is a great cleavage in the world today," he said. "Decisions being made in Moscow and Washington are crucial. Unless they are Christian decisions I fear for the world."

Hays received a standing ovation before and after his address. He punctuated his speech with humorous references to his defeat by Alford, a segregationist member of the Little Rock School Board who attacked Hays as being too moderate on the school integration issue.

Hays said he was "stuck with the label of moderate, an d'moderation is not always a virtue. It is not a virtue if it is a dilution of principles or is accepted as an expediency. But moderation is a virtue in the attitude of people toward people."

Amos Latest White House Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — "And I explain this to me: I got this letter from the White House—"

"Now, wait a minute, Amos. You been dreaming again. Ain't that right Kingfish?"

"Yeah. Sure sounds that way. Amos, you got as much chance of gettin' a letter from the White House as you is to become Kingfish of the Mystic Knights of the Sen."

Amos was right, though. The White House itself made the announcement Thursday.

Freeman F. Gosden, the original Amos of Amos 'n' Andy, has just been appointed a special U. S. ambassador.

President Eisenhower named Gosden as one of a 10-man delegation to represent him at the Nov. 28-Dec. 4 inauguration of Don Adolfo Lopez Mateos as President of Mexico.

Gosden, a one-time tobacco salesman from Richmond, Va., has played golf with Eisenhower at Denver. The White House described him as a long time personal friend of the President.

The 59-year-old Gosden — or rather, the Amos he long portrayed — has been a household word to radio and many TV fans almost since the crystal set days.

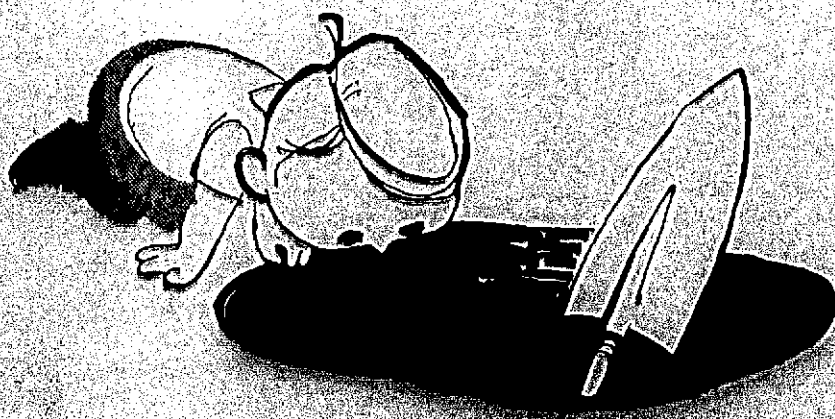

Amos is a wistful, trusting soul — often the victim of the boastful Andy — originated by Charles Correll — and the big-dealing Kingfish. They are just a few of the colorful characters who populate the blackface comedy-variety series.

The original Gosden-Correll team, both white, still plays Amos 'n' Andy on radio. A Negro cast fills the parts on a television series.
